

READING THE RIGHT LEAVES

Round out your tea collection with selections from each category: Herbal, Traditional, Medicinal, and Specialty. We sampled only organically grown teas, which is especially important since tea leaves are not washed before drying and packing. Most organic teas are also Fair-trade certified, which means the farmers are guaranteed a living wage from their efforts. From chatting over a pot of blossoming tea, to revving up your digestion or cooling down a fever, the right choice will hit the spot.

HERBAL

NUMI - Bushmen Honeybush

A unique and delightfully mild herbal tea from Africa. Honeybush is excellent with milk or served iced as a caffeine-free alternative to black or green tea.

CHOICE - Peppermint Herb

The classic favorite for settling tummies and starting conversations. Peppermint is long known by herbalists for stimulating digestion and freshening breath.

TRADITIONAL

TAZO - Darjeeling

Stimulating black tea with a heartwarming aroma and a full dose of caffeine. These tea bags are strong enough for a full pot and make a healthy and invigorating substitute for coffee.

RISHI - Pu-erh Ginger Black

Pu-erh teas are fermented leaves from old growth tea trees. The fermentation creates a rich earthy flavor that is complemented perfectly with ginger.

REPUBLIC OF TEA - Green Earl Grey

Named after the British Earl Grey who visited China in 1830, this tea is flavored with bergamot, a type of citrus. As a green tea, it is crisp and refreshing.

MEDICINAL

TRADITIONAL MEDICINALS - Throat Coat

Licorice, slippery elm, and marshmallow in a warming base. Reach for this comfy brew at the first sign of a sniffle.

ORGANIC INDIA - Tulsi Honey Chamomile

The sacred herb of India known as Holy Basil, Tulsi's benefits are noted in texts dating back 5,000 years. Together with chamomile, it's a soothing treat.

SPECIALTY

NUMI - Flowering Tea

"Leaves of Art" are carefully hand wrapped and sewn into tight balls by artisans in China. Watching them unfold in a clear pot adds excitement to intimate occasions.

ARBOR - Pineapple Passion

Tasty and refreshing blend of green tea, pineapple, and blue malva flowers. This loose leaf tea is ideal for an after dinner treat or with a light midday snack.

YOGI - Chai Redbush

The exotic stimulation of Indian chai meets the sublime flavor of South African rooibos. This combination is the best of both worlds, without the caffeine.
